

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a vehicle sunroof structure having lid sliding rails formed on left and right sides respectively of a roof opening in such a way as to extend longitudinally so as to guide sunroof
5 lids, and also having shade sliding rails respectively formed on the left and right sides of the roof opening in such a manner as to extend longitudinally, lid forming members, on which the lid sliding rails are respectively formed, is provided separately from shade forming members on which the shade sliding
10 rails are respectively formed so as to drastically enlarge the design freedom of the sunroof structure for widening the passenger compartment.